The church is the visible evidence that a better world is possible ...

I shared at the AGM last week that I believe that the church is the visible evidence that a better world is possible. That's easy when we all agree, but it's even more powerful when we don't agree. Peace together is not having to agree - it comes not from a lack of difference, but a lack of separation. As we seek to live together despite our differences, God dwells amongst us. This is the love of Jesus in action and the imperative of the gospel.

The big deal for us as a community is that Jesus is Lord. The big deal is who we are in Christ together, who God is calling us to be and what God is calling us to do and speak. The big deal for us is bringing people to Jesus, bringing hope to those who have no hope, being transformed by Jesus and growing in our discipleship, worship, witness and service. The big deal is loving God, loving each other and loving others.

In John 17 we find a prayer by Jesus for all believers - that we may be one as the Father and the Son are one, that we might know unity and through that unity, the world may know Jesus. And so we commit to love and unity despite our differences, knowing that Jesus has prayed for us to do so.
